Are you...

- Wanting to learn more about sustainable land practices?
- Seeking a lifestyle change?
- Looking to move to the country?
- Have land but now what?

This course is for you!

Graduates leave this course ready to design and implement permaculture principles into a wide range of scenarios, including their own property. The course is taught both within the classroom (theory) and on-farm environments (practicals) including field trips to working properties.

This course is accredited by the Permaculture Institute. You'll receive a certificate which is recognised by all major permaculture certifying bodies and many world-wide universities.

Permaculture is a set of principles guiding sustainable and productive systems for living, architecture, food production, land management and community. No chemicals and no excuses! Just good, thoughtful, innovative and effective design.

Students are invited to bring details of their own sites or potential sites to consider during the course of the program.

Our on-farm permaculture design certificate course enables you to extend your learning by being on a working farm complete with animal systems, working gardens, dams, food forests and more.

Lead Educators: Dan Harris-Pascal and John Champagne

Support: Penny Kothe; other specialists may include Dan Deighton, Bruce Davidson, Aaron Sorenson, Heather Wilkins, David Spicer.
